

modes of narration and interpretation

third person narration, limited point of view, internal focalization

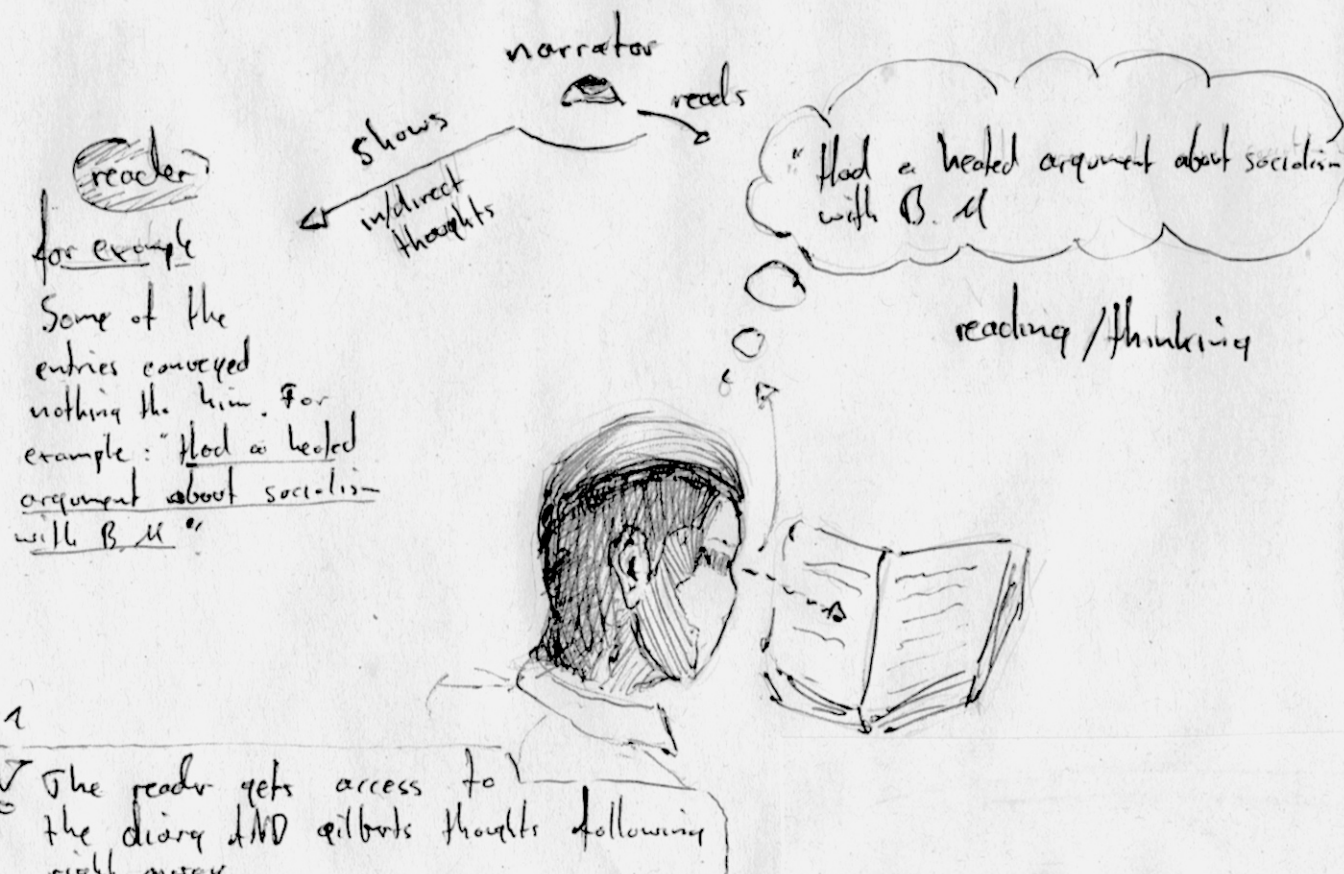

third person authorial narration, external focalization

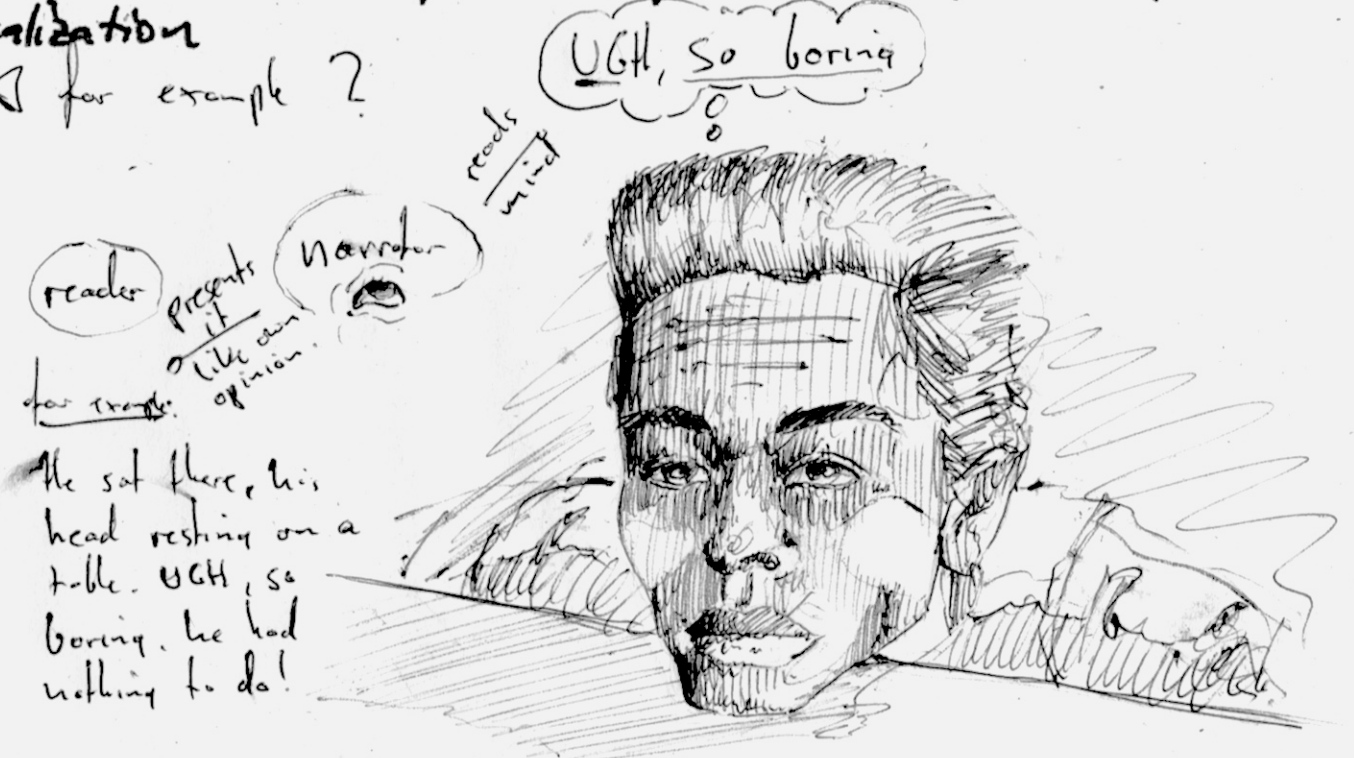

third-person narration, limited point of view, internal focalization

for example 1

third-person narration, limited point of view, internal focalization

for example 2

The reader often doesn't actively notice this type of narration. Whilst reading, the narrator gives him his own opinion, as it seems, and this gets the reader very close to the plot and protagonist.